

3 Jap Destroyers Sunk off Aleutians By U. S. Subs

WASHINGTON, July 6—(P)—The Navy announced today that United States submarines had sunk three Japanese destroyers in the Aleutian Islands July 4 and had left a fourth destroyer "burning fiercely."

A communique based on information received up to 12:30 P. M., Eastern War Time, today said:

"North Pacific area:

"1. On the Fourth of July, U. S. submarines torpedoed four Japanese destroyers in the Aleutian Islands.

2. Three of these destroyers were attacked at Kiska. Two were sunk and the third, when last seen, was burning fiercely.

"3. The fourth destroyer was torpedoed and sunk at Agattu where enemy transports and escorting vessels were located on July 2 and were attacked by Army bombers."

Today's Navy report raised Japan's losses in her efforts to establish occupation forces on the western Aleutians to five ships sunk—three destroyers, one cruiser and one transport—and nine damaged, including an aircraft carrier.

All the attacks prior to the Independence Day submarine offensive had been made by Army and Navy aircraft which have been limited in their operations by the infrequency of favorable weather.

A Navy communique also disclosed that U. S. Army bombers attacked enemy transports and escorting vessels at Agattu, at the easternmost tip of the Aleutians, on July 2.

The communique said three of the Japanese destroyers were torpedoed by submarines at Kiska and another at Agattu.

It was the first time U. S. submarines had been reported operating in the Alaska war theater and the first indication, as well, that Japanese warships were operating in such strength among the Aleutians.

All the natives and the few white residents have been evacuated from the western Aleutian Islands, where Army airmen have been playing cat and mouse with the Japanese whenever weather permits, and from the Pribilof Islands in the Bering Sea north of Dutch Harbor.

William Zimmerman, Jr., assistant Indian commissioner reported today that the evacuees, numbering somewhat less than 1,000, had been taken by the Navy to Juneau, Alaska, where the Indian Bureau has provided housing.

The Japanese landing at Attu, however, was said by Delegate Dimond of Alaska to have prevented the evacuation of the few residents of the island. There were no natives at Kiska, where the Japanese also have landed.

This has not deterred the Army from bombing the enemy's shore installations and any other available targets whenever a rift in the fog permits. A Navy communique Saturday reported four attacks by Army bombers, supported by Navy patrol planes, from June 21 to July 3.

RUSSIA FACES CRISIS AS 'BIG PUSH' ON

Meandering Along the Main Stem

By WASH FAYETTE

"How are you going to spend the Fourth, feeding the chickens?" I asked one of the county officials, Friday, who lives on a farm a few miles from the city.

"No," was the response, "I am going to let the chickens feed me."

A large number of citizens who have heard a great deal against inflation which might come with the war or after the war, and have been much opposed to it, are finding the proper kind of inflation a mighty good thing.

I mean the proper inflation of automobile and truck tires, for it means much longer life for those precious tires that must last as long as the war—and then some—or the owner is decidedly out of luck.

I notice quite a number of auto owners who are still a little careless about the proper inflation of their tires, and some of these days they will be wondering why their tires gave out so soon.

Did you notice how few flags were displayed about the city and county over the nation's birthday anniversary?

The number was surprisingly small for such an important national holiday.

This is one thing that has been sadly neglected in recent years, but I'll venture the assertion that, as more and more of our men are sent to the battle front and the stress of war reaches more and more into every home, that patriotic fervor will be renewed as it was during the first World War.

American warplanes, flashing through the Far Pacific skies in growing numbers, were declared today to be teaching the Japanese a cautious new respect in the Battle of China and crippling any Japanese attempt to mass for an invasion of Australia.

Military dispatches said the Japanese, after bombing the helpless Chinese with impunity through five long years of war, were now switching to night aerial attacks in an effort to avoid the fierce resistance encountered from fliers of the new U. S. Army 23rd Pursuit Group in China.

War Plant Wages May Be Stabilized

By FRANCIS M. LE MAY

WASHINGTON, July 6.—(P)—In shaping its policy of labor priorities, the War Manpower Commission appeared today to have forged a powerful lever to bring about wage standardization in war production plants.

Commission Chairman Paul V. McNutt advised the U. S. Employment Service it may deny labor priorities to industries "in which wages and conditions of work are not at least as advantageous to a worker referred to a job opening therein as those prevailing for similar establishments in the industrial area."

Such denial would mean plants paying sub-standard wages would not obtain workers through the employment service until after the requirements of plants with priority ratings were filled.

Government sources said they expected this would force management to standardize and possibly stabilize wages in various production areas.

At McNutt's direction, rosters now are being prepared of skills and of war plants, in the order of their urgency, with the double purpose of deferring skilled men from military service and making certain that the most vital war plants get first call on their services.

One of the toughest problems of the manpower mobilization for production has been the variance of wages paid for men of similar skills. To combat this the Manpower Commission made the U.

British Take Offense with Arrival of Reinforcements For African Defenders

By ROGER D. GREENE

(By The Associated Press)

British headquarters announced that Gen. Sir Claude Auchinleck's Egyptian armies had driven the Axis into retreat for the second successive day, while in the Russian campaign a sharp new crisis was indicated by a German claim that Nazi spearheads had crossed River Don.

London military quarters said Adolf Hitler, now pressing a full-scale offensive, had thrown more than 1,000,000 troops into the Kursk drive in a mammoth wheeling operation to overrun the approaches to the Caucasus.

Kursk 130 miles north of Kharkov, was described by the Russians last week as the scene of the greatest tank battle of the year.

Advices reaching London said the Germans, using 1,500 first line aircraft and 10 divisions to spearhead the lunge eastward, had already forced the Russians back in the region of Voronezh on the Moscow-Rostov railway.

The Vichy radio, often a Nazi propaganda outlet, asserted that Gen. Heinz Guderian's tank columns had cut the vital rail line.

Two German columns were said to be approaching Voronezh from the northwest and southwest, aiming at a junction west of the Don for an assault on the city of 212,000.

Meanwhile, the battle of Egypt took a brighter turn for Britain's Imperial desert fighters.

A Berlin dispatch to a Swiss newspaper quoted German military circles as admitting that the British had succeeded in

Synthetic Rubber Being Developed

YANK AERIAL ASSAULT ON GERMANY TO GROW

LONDON, July 6.—(P)—American air "blows" against Germany will develop rapidly on a scale never before envisioned now that the United States Air Force has spread its wings over Nazi-held territory, military experts predicted today.

The July Fourth opening of an American air front in Europe, they said, meant that at least half of the ground preparations to put the air force into active service had been completed.

They expected the modest beginning, in which six American-flown Boston Bombers took part in a daring daylight sweep on German-held Holland, to mushroom into a full-scale aerial onslaught.

"The main factor in opening any new air front is the immense amount of work which must be done on the ground before even one plane can be put into the air," one expert said.

WASHINGTON, July 6.—(P)—Early Senate action to increase domestic production of synthetic rubber through use of alcohol from surplus farm products appeared likely today as an agriculture subcommittee called for testimony from War Production Chief Donald M. Nelson.

However war production Chief Donald M. Nelson protested today against the proposed program on the ground that it would require critical materials "urgently needed for the war effort."

Opposing a bill calling for creation of a rubber supply agency to direct manufacture of synthetic rubber from grain alcohol, Nelson told a Senate agriculture subcommittee sponsoring the measure that construction of such distilleries would require copper and steel.

"Every pound of copper and steel taken away from our present supply," he asserted, "would

ANTI-AXIS FEELING RISES IN COSTA RICA

German Business Places Are Wrecked by Demonstrators

SAN JOSE, Costa Rica, July 6.—(P)—Anti-Axis feeling, fanned by the torpedoing of the United States freighter San Pablo in Puerto Limon harbor last Thursday, remained at high pitch today following weekend demonstrations in which 83 business establishments owned by Germans and Italians were damaged.

Police broke up the demonstrations and patrolled the streets to prevent further disorders.

Twenty-three Costa Rican stevedores were killed when the San Pablo was sunk at her dock by a submarine which sneaked into the harbor.

A year ago the top was $11.50 and two years ago $7.

HOLIDAY DEATHS SHOW DECREASE

Thirteen Killed in Traffic In Ohio—Rationing Given Credit for Lower Toll

(By The Associated Press)

Death struck swiftly and often among Ohio's July Fourth holiday throngs, eclipsing its grim 1941 Independence Day toll.

The state's week-end fatalities: 13 in traffic accidents, 10 drownings and five from other causes.

On the July Fourth week end a year ago nine were killed in traffic and eight were drowned. Miscellaneous violent deaths this year included three shootings, one killed by lightning and one by train.

Toll Lowest in Years

Violent death took its lowest holiday toll in years over the two-day Fourth of July week end with only 317 lives reported lost as against a 628 total for the three-day celebration of the Fourth last year.

Gasoline rationing on the popular eastern seaboard, war plants operating everywhere over the holidays and fireworks restrictions combined to lessen accidental deaths.

Of the total deaths reported in a nation-wide Associated Press survey, 159 resulted from traffic accidents, 83 from drowning and 75 from miscellaneous causes. Not a single fireworks casualty was reported.

BOMBAY, July 6.—(P)—Declaring that "India is as much interested as her Allies in warding off attack," Mohandas K. Gandhi proposed today that India be made free and that United Nations troops be allowed to remain to defend the country against the Japanese.

The influential nationalist wrote in his weekly newspaper Harijan:

"I argue that Allied troops, if they remain, will do so not to exercise authority over the people or at India's expense, but will remain under a treaty with the government of a free India at the United Nations' expense for the sole purpose of repelling Japanese attacks and helping China."

(By The Associated Press)

Three newly reported ship sinkings in the western Atlantic, coupled with 20 reported last week, put at 340 today the unofficial tabulation by the Associated Press of United and Neutral nations' merchant ship losses in that area since Pearl Harbor.

A large American merchantman loaded with survivors of two other torpedoed craft was reported yesterday to have gone down before submarine attacks off the coast of South America, while a smaller American vessel was reported sunk off the northern coast of the Dominican Republic.

Nineteen survivors of a third ship—a United Nations merchantman torpedoed in the western Atlantic—were landed yesterday at an eastern Canadian port. Crewmen said an undetermined number of their mates had been lost.

Wickard and Wallace Disagree On Vital Surplus Wheat Policy

By JACK BELL

WASHINGTON, July 6.—(P)—Vice President Wallace and Secretary Wickard were reported today to have taken opposing sides in a Senate controversy over a measure directing full parity government loans to farmers of $1.34 a bushel on 1942 wheat and 97 cents a bushel on corn.

Wallace, who preceded Wickard as secretary of agriculture, was described by friends as taking a vigorous stand against the bill, which the Senate scheduled as its unfinished business today.

On the other hand, sponsors said they were informed that Wickard approved the measure. Passage of the bill had been projected as a possible solution of a quarrel over the $680,000,000 farm appropriations bill that has left the Department of Agriculture without funds since July 1.

The Senate was expected to act today on a compromise measure to continue departmental appropriations for July at the June rate while attempts were made to settle differences in the regular bill. Wednesday is payday in the department.

Wallace was represented as having told senators he was opposed to the parity loan bill because he believed it would place practically the entire 1942 grain crop under mortgage to the government with loans ranging 38 cents a bushel for wheat and 15 cents a bushel for corn above the average price paid on the farms for those crops last June 15.

The measure, offered by Senators Bankhead (D-Ala.) and Russell (D-Ga.), would authorize full parity loans on corn, wheat, rice, cotton, tobacco and peanuts.

Best Baseball Talent In Service All Set To Meet Best in Majors

CLEVELAND, July 6.—(AP)—The best baseball talent in the army and navy got a final tune-up in a two hour practice session today while waiting for the major leagues to decide on an opponent for them.

Under the managerial eye of Lieut. Gordon (Mickey) Cochran of the navy, a squad of 21 players climbed to razor-edge form for tomorrow night's game with the winner of the National-American All-Star game in New York.

Cochran's own boys, the men from the Great Lakes training station, have had the most practice together and form the nucleus of the squad, but the two-hour session today probably will decide the final line-up.

Lieut. George Earnshaw, former hurling ace of the Philadelphia Athletics, took time out from his coaching to predict the outcome of today's major league All-Star game in New York.

"I think the National League team will play against us, because their pitching looks better," Earnshaw commented.

Bob Feller, former Cleveland fireballer, also picked the Nationals to win today. Said rapid Robert: "I think the National Leaguers are a little better, but of course I hope the American team wins."

After his workout in the Lakefront Stadium where he showed his speed last year, the 23-year-old Iowa farm boy said he felt in good condition.

-Spying- On Sports

By Hugh Fullerton, Jr.

NEW YORK July 6.—That American League All-Star team is going to look mighty funny without Jimmy Fox out there. . . But it would look even funnier if Jimmy were playing on the other side. . . Incidentally, where are the figures to back up the usual story of National League pitching vs. American League hitting? . . . Outside of Lou Boudreau, who has hit two-for-two in the past, Arky Vaughan's .400 is the best All-Star batting average for any of today's starters. Ted Williams tops the American Leaguers with .333. . . If they sell out the polo grounds tonight and the Cleveland Stadium, tomorrow night, the bat and ball fund still will get only $100,000, which will buy only about 22 percent of the equipment that the soldiers and sailors have asked for.

Monday Matinee

New York couldn't round up any military units to put on a pre-game show for the All-Star crowd but Cleveland will have plenty. Camp Custer, Mich., will furnish a tank destroyer battalion and an artillery unit while the Marines will supply a crack drill unit. . . Dean Cromwell, the Southern California track coach, and Jeff Cravath, the football boss, are reported feuding because a couple of track men are going out for football. . . Milwaukee fans are giving Ted Gullic, their favorite outfielder, war stamps instead of the usual traveling bag, etc., on "Gullic night."

Indians Win Four in Row Over Holiday

(By the Associated Press.)

Indianapolis set down Louisville four times during the holiday week end of doubleheaders to wing from sixth to fourth place in the American Association standings.

Meantime, tailender St. Paul was having a party by battering Minneapolis in three out of four games, putting the Millers into a tie with Louisville for fifth place.

The Columbus Red Birds took three out of four contests from Toledo while Kansas City and Milwaukee were splitting a pair of double headers. The birds thus tightened their claim on second, the Brewers stayed in third, and the Blues maintained a five game lead over the pack. A margin of only 2 1-2 games, however, separated fourth place Indianapolis from second-place Columbus.

In yesterday's games, Indianapolis beat Louisville 9-6 and 4-3; Toledo beat Columbus 6 to 3 but the Red Birds came back to win 8 to 4 in the nightcap; Kansas City won from Milwaukee 12 to 7 then lost a 2-0 decision, and St. Paul twice downed Minneapolis 4-3 and 5-4.

The 19th Hole Country Club Golf Gossip

Glen Roseboom today wore the crown and held the top honors of the annual Flag Tournament, traditional highlight of the Fourth of July holiday golf at the Country Club, after staking out the No. 1 hole as his own special domain by right of conquest.

Hoy Simons and Ed Cunningham tied for putting honors with 13 apiece and the "most" honors went to Gilbert Leeth with five, Stanley Mark, Jr., with six and Paul Pennington with seven of them.

Each of these received a prize from the club professional, Tony Capuano.

Some of the other results of the tourney were:

Ronald Cornwell pinned his flag 18 inches from the No. 1 hole; Glen Woodmansee put his two feet away; Bob Hagerty left his three feet off; Frank Jackson made it half-way down the No. 1 fairway; Ed Hunt flagged up in the No. 9 hole; Glen Speaks was 20 yards from the No. 9 green; Bud Tharp's last drive was on the No. 9 fairway; Herb Wilson was on the No. 8 green; Dr. W. H. Limes' was the second shot on the No. 9 fairway; Stanley Hagerty made it to the No. 9 green; Pat Burke's was also on the No. 9 green; Walter Jones was 20 feet from the No. 9 cup; Hoy Simons was on the No. 9 green; Bill Junk was three inches from the cup on the No. 9 green; W. S. Paxson was on the No. 1 fairway; so was Forest Ellis; Charles Dunton was in the trap to the left of the No. 1 green; Gilbert Leeth was in the No. 9 fairway; Stanley Mark, Jr., was on the No. 9 green; Stanley Mark, Sr., was behind a big oak tree in the rough on the No. 9 fairway; Paul Pennington was in the No. 9 fairway and O. D. Farquhar was flagged out in the No. 9 cup.

That may all sound a bit confusing to the uninitiated but to the golfers it is A, B, C and represents a tussle with every club in the bag. The tournament follows these general lines:

Half of the player's handicap is added to the par figure for the course—for instance, a golfer with a 10 handicap would have 5 added to 36, which is par for the course, to give a total of 41 for the allotted number of strokes for the flag tourney. Play then starts from the No. 1 tee and the ball smacked around 41 times. Where it comes to rest after the 41st smack, the flag is pinned. Some of the players completed one full round and the winner finished up in the No. 1 cup. Most of them, however, just about completed the nine-hole course.

The flag tourney, like the handicap tourney, is designed to put everyone on an equal footing and start them all from scratch. The fun the play creates is evidenced by the number of entries and its annual return.

YANKEES HOLD SLIM LEAD IN DOUBLEHEADERS

Dodgers Remain Well Out In Front in National After Holiday

By AUSTIN BEALMER

(By the Associated Press.)

Major league baseball teams put aside their pennant struggles today after two straight rounds of double headers and sent their stars to the Inter-League Classic at New York.

The three-day lull caused by this evening's all-star tilt and the Cleveland clash between the winner and a service nine tomorrow night finds all teams in both leagues maintaining the positions they held before the strenuous week-end.

The New York Yankees retain their four-game lead in the American League and the Brooklyn Dodgers hold an edge of eight and a half games over St. Louis in the National League.

Ted Williams, Boston's American League batting champion of 1941, went ahead of the circuit's hitters over the week end to lead. Williams is batting .348. Pete Reiser of the Dodgers, who won the National League crown last year, is slugging .361.

Thus, as the teams pause before plunging into the last half of the campaign, the pennant winners and the leading batters of 1941 are all on top once more.

Roger Wolff pitched the Athletics to 5-4 decision over the Yankees in yesterday's first game but the Champs took the second, 4-2, to give Lefty Gomez his third mound triumph of the year.

A double by Johnny Sullivan and a single by George Case in the ninth inning gave the Washington Senators a 4-3 win over the Boston Red Sox in their opener. Joe Dobson gave the Nats five hits in the nightcap and the Red Sox won 5-0.

The Cleveland Indians and Detroit Tigers split a doubleheader. The tribe won 5-1, behind Mel Harder's three-hit pitching after the Tigers had taken the first game, 10-1.

The Chicago White Sox swamped the St. Louis Browns, 14-2, as Ted Lyons pitched his 252nd major league victory. The Browns squared it, 13-2, with Steve Sundra pitching six-hit ball and contributing a home run, triple and double.

Eddie Miller doubled in the run that gave the Boston Braves a 6-5 verdict over the Dodgers. Then Larry French, who hasn't lost this season, pitched Brooklyn to a 2-1 triumph in the second game for his ninth win.

At Pittsburgh, a line drive struck Pitcher Paul Derringer of the Cincinnati Reds on the knee after he had blanked the Pirates for five frames in the first game, injuring him so badly he was withdrawn from the All-Star game roster. Pittsburgh went on to win the game, 4-3, but Ray Starr pitched the Reds to a 5-2 decision in the afterpiece for his 12th decision.

The St. Louis Cardinals whipped the Chicago Cubs, 5-3 and 11-6, and the Philadelphia Phils surprised the New York Giants, 3-2 and 5-3, for the first doubleheader victory of the year.

National Leaguers Logical Favorites In All-Star Game

By GAYLE TALBOT

NEW YORK, July 6.—(AP)—For perhaps the first time since baseball's annual all-star classic was inaugurated 10 years ago, the National League's standard bearers will be the logical favorites when they clash with the American Leaguers at 6:30 (EWT) this evening in the Polo Grounds.

Trailing three victories to six in the previous games, the National Leaguers are seriously determined to win this one on superior pitching and to whittle down the advantage the junior circuit has built up by its vastly greater slugging ability. Loss of three of their principal stars of last year's triumph at Detroit—Bobby Feller, Cecil Travis and Bill Dickey—has weakened the American Leaguers.

The Nationals not only boast their usual fine set of pitchers, but they will go into today's game fortified by a group of hitters who, by the averages at least, stack up right along side their rivals.

The Nationals also appear to have a superior incentive to win. They have been deadly serious in their preparations, to such an extent that President Ford Frick made a special request that five crack pitchers be given adequate rest. With Manager Joe McCarthy of the American Leaguers, ill all the past week in Buffalo, the Americans apparently had little opportunity to make any such extensive provisions.

The team that is in front when the last out is made under the lights tonight will hustle for Cleveland to appear against Lieut. Mickey Cochrane's Service All-Stars in a second benefit game tomorrow night.

A crowd of more than 50,000 is expected to assemble for the start of today's game in the lengthening shadows. Somewhere past midway of the contest it will be necessary to snap on the floodlights.

This was an important consideration in Manager Leo Durocher's decision to start Claude Passeau of the Chicago Cubs against the American Leaguers, rather than Mort Cooper, the St. Louis Cardinals' fireballer. Leo figures Cooper's speed will make him well nigh invisible to the batters during that eerie period after the lights are burning and the day still is fading.

Probable lineups and batting orders for tonight's tenth annual major league all-star baseball game:

HORSES TRAINED HERE GET THEIR SHARE OF CASH-GLORY AT MARION

Horses trained this spring at the Fairgrounds track here, got their share of the honors and money in the races at Marion in the Fourth of July program although three of them were in the same race and had to beat each other to do it.

The four entries on the holiday card from here, Patsy Mack, owned by C. W. Cessna of Kenton and driven by Ernest Smith, finished third in all three heats of the 2:16 pace which drew a field of eight starters. The time was 2:09 1-2, 2:09 and 2:09 3-4.

In the three-year-old pace, T. D. Van, owned by T. D. Van Camp and Son, won the first heat, was second in the second and fourth in the third. He was driven by Bob Vallery. His trainer and regular driver, C. I. (Slim) Shilline, is in the Marion Hospital recovering from injuries received in a spill during a race Wednesday night.

Melda Hanover, owned by C. H. Hayes and driven by Bennie

PREPARED AGAINST REVOLT

Writing in the American Mercury, Albert A. Brandt, a German professor who left the Reich after Hitler came to power, says that the Nazis long ago considered the possibility of a Civil War and made elaborate preparations for dealing with it.

Dr. Brandt goes into convincing detail in describing these preparations. According to him, 50 divisions of the dread Schwarze Korps have been stationed at strategic points within the Reich, and are ready to deal brutally with revolt on a moment's notice. Germany is literally crawling with spies who report constantly to the secret police. Old concentration camps have been enlarged and new ones built—one, which is completely unoccupied as yet, is equipped for more than 100,000 people. The man who planned all this, and who heads the organization is the infamous Himmler—a man who looked like a mild school schoolmaster and who has the temperament and the characteristics of the cruellest and craftiest savage. Literally millions of people have died because of Himmler's policies—and many thousands of those people were Germans who held or were suspected of holding Anti-Nazi sympathies.

This indicates some of the difficulties that lie in the way of revolt inside Germany. If revolt does come on a wide scale, it will be because the people are so desperate they are willing to risk mass suicide—or because German military forces sustain terrific defeats and lose their prestige and power. If revolt does come, the Schwarze Korps, whose uniform insignia is a skull and crossbones, will see that the streets of the Reich run with blood.

SOLDIER EDUCATION

The American soldier of today is a better educated man, take him in the mass, than was his predecessor of 1917. Only nine percent of those in the last war had completed high school or had any college training, whereas forty-one percent of all white soldiers inducted so far have been through high school, some with a little work at college to their credit.

White men of military age in the West are better educated than those in the northcentral and southeastern regions. Many men from the South are less well educated than either of those groups.

This situation might have been guessed by anyone familiar with educational conditions. But it does not do to look down on the South for this reason. The levels are rising in the South more rapidly than many people suppose.

Police Court Clerk Esther Sullivan told the story:

An Army private brought his "overtime split" to the counter, apologized for parking too long and explained he'd only been in Tacoma a few days and hadn't learned the rules.

"Wait a minute," the civilian behind him interjected. "This man's a soldier and I'll pay his fine and mine too."

More than a dozen other customers stepped up without a word and also paid their fines.

A Friendly Fight

TACOMA, Wash.—(AP)—Police answered a hurry call to stop a fight between two soldiers and a sailor. The contestants were taken to jail; bail was set at $25 each.

"Gosh," said the sailor, pulling a lonely $5 bill from his pocket. "I'll be a W. O. L. from my ship and it'll be tough for me if I don't get back..."

Up stepped the soldiers, who between them had $20.02, and paid the sailor's fine. The sailor left; the soldiers stayed in jail with their two cents.

Washington at a Glance

By Charles P. Stewart

When we and the British establish our continental European front, who's to be its generalissimo?

Under our system, Franklin D. Roosevelt, as president of the United States, is our armed forces' commander-in-chief. The British system is like ours, with the chiefship vested in John Bull's prime minister Winston Churchill at present.

There'll have to be a field commander, however, to launch and direct the new joint land campaign. We and our allies didn't have one during our participation in World War I, and our lack of unity seriously hampered our combined effort against the Kaiser. Our own and Britain's combatant leaders didn't conflict with one another. They were very co-operative instead. Still, neither one gave all-around orders or accepted total responsibility. Finally Marshal Foch gravitated virtually into the job, but the arrangement never was overly satisfactory and its weakness doubtless considerably delayed the finish.

President Roosevelt and Prime Minister Churchill, as commander-in-chief, aren't professional fighting men, in the sense of directing troops in action.

Their partnership stunt is international grand strategy, including diplomacy and lots of other details, besides advancing and maneuvering and occasionally falling slightly backward at just the right minute. These things have to be decided on upon darned short notice, and a field commander is materially handicapped if he can't order 'em without delaying to consult a colleague.

Recently Discussed
Selection of a candidate to attend to this unified job presumably was minutely discussed by President Roosevelt and Prime Minister Churchill during their recent confab in Washington.

What the Russians and Chinese think on the subject doesn't greatly matter.

Naturally they want a competent Anglo-American choice made, because their own chances will depend on it. There won't be any personal jealousies between them and ourselves, though. The Russians have their own particular front and the Chinese have theirs. Furthermore Comrade Stalin is absolute enough to do his own deciding, and so is Chiang Kai-Shek of China. They can be overthrown, but they can't be voted out of office, as Prime Minister Churchill can, any time, or have a Republican congress elected against 'em, as President Roosevelt can, at least theoretically, next November.

But President Roosevelt and Prime Minister Churchill must hit on a mutually acceptable Anglo-American field commander, or they must have done so already, and picking him can't have been so easy.

Do we want a Briton put in charge of our troops on the European west front? Or is it likely that the British will enjoy naving an American at the top of their command there? The two guys unquestionably will have the sense to harmonize ostensibly. Nevertheless, if there's a little setback, it's safe betting that each will blame the other for it.

It's comparatively simple to assign an American Army officer to act as an adviser to Comrade Stalin. He's only an adviser. It's still easier for an American to get away with it in China, because the Chinese admit that they need plenty of military advice. That is, it would have been easier in China, if our adviser there hadn't had such bad luck at it.

No Mere Adviser
But, anyway, the impending Anglo-American situation isn't going to call for a mere adviser.

That second front will require a supreme head.

Will Britain agree to let us send such a chap over to their bank of the Atlantic—to tell John Bull how to manage?—after Waterloo and similar events? Or will we acquiesce in an AEF, refection?

getting killed under British direction. If the chap is nominated, tentatively indorsed mutually, and cleans up in jigtime, it'll make the loveliest Anglo-American case of cohesion since the 1700 and '70s. He'll need to do it mighty fast, though, or in the meantime, there'll be a lot of criss-cross criticism.

And, preliminarily, he's got to be agreed on.

Diet and Health

Fourth of July Deaths and Accident Hazards

By LOGAN CLENDENING, M. D.

TRAUMA IS defined in the dictionary as "an injury or wound." Microtrauma is therefore a slight injury or a microscopic injury. It is surprising how many patients refer the beginning of their illness to an accident or an injury of some kind.

Dr. Clendening will answer questions of general interest only, and then only through his column.

This connection can seldom be substantiated but the possibility of repeated minute traumatizations as a cause of illness is a very suggestive one. It has been discussed in detail by Dr. Ernest T. Duschak of New York.

Prolonged weight-bearing has an influence on compression of the cartilages of the joints of the spine and of the legs. A study of the pressure within the knee joint with the subject standing and with heavier and heavier weights added around the shoulders shows that the increase in weight-bearing decreases the circulation of tissue fluid in the joints until finally it stops completely.

Possible Results

Normally this goes on with every body to a certain extent, but the stoppage of the circulation of tissue fluid in most of us is temporary, with no ensuing disorder of tissue nutrition. The compression and relaxation of the cartilaginous disks between the spinal vertebrae that occurs in breathing and bodily motion also normally results in no disorder. But with any decrease in perfect nutritional health of these structures, any slight increase in traumatism may result in the beginning of arthritis or neuritis.

We discussed in an article a week or two ago the commonest cause of sciatica, which is a protrusion of the center of one of the cartilaginous disks between the vertebrae. This protrusion occurs as a result of trauma, but the trauma is usually so slight that the patient doesn't remember when it occurred. It may indeed be one of these conditions in which repeated microscopic traumatizations cause the condition.

Program of Prevention

As time goes on, old age usually brings an increase of weight to the body and also a decrease of nutrition to the tissues, particularly to the joints, and it is not surprising that at this time the chronic symptoms of arthritis begin to be seen.

According to Dr. Duschak, soldiers, factory workers, dentists, surgeons, policemen, salesmen, cooks and waiters are particularly liable to microtrauma. Prevention depends upon shortening and interrupting the continuous weight-bearing by intercalated motions, the use of exercise, massage, vibration, heat and often the correction of such deformities as crooked feet, knock knees, bowlegs, etc.

These things, of course, are easier to say than to do but the conception is a reasonable one and those whose occupations expose them to microtraumatism may well engage on a program of prevention.

CHAPTER NINETEEN

"WHEN DID you meet this New York artist?" asked Miss Martha. "Last night," said Dian. "I was out for a while, and ran into Claire and him. His name's William Rollins."

"Miss Martha shrugged. "I should think having him in town while Paul's here would sort of complicate matters."

Dian laughed. "It does," she said. She pushed back her chair. "I'll run up and do my room, and then get started."

"I think," said Miss Martha, "that you're going out to the farm this morning just to annoy me."

"Why, Aunt Martha! What a thing to say!"

"It's certainly mighty queer, your rushing out there on the very morning you know Jerome's going to telephone."

"I told you," Dian said, "that the man who wants to see the paintings is here for only a short time. I can't put off showing them to him. He may know where I can tell some of the things, and we certainly need to sell something. Aunt Martha. You know that as well as I do."

"Of course I do. But who on earth would want to buy those things Pa painted?"

"Maybe they aren't so bad as you think them," Dian said. "Anyway, I want to get the reaction of someone who really knows." She hurried out into the hall. "Slip out and have a look at Betsy," she called back. "I not only got her innards to purring, but I lifted her chin and gave her a permanent."

"She certainly needed a little polishing up," said Miss Martha. "All right, I'll go look. I must say you do know how to take years off her."

Dian waited until she heard the closing of the back screen door, then she glanced at her watch. It wasn't 9 o'clock yet, but she wasn't going to let that deter her from what she was about to do. She picked up the telephone and asked for the number of the Ardendale Inn.

"May I speak with Mr. William Rollins?" she asked when the clerk at the Inn answered. "This is Miss Dian Weston calling."

"Just a moment, Miss Dian," the clerk said. "I think he's having breakfast. I'll page him."

In no time at all Bill Rollins was at the other end of the line.

"Hello, Dian!" he called cheerily.

"I do hope you'll forgive me for calling you so early," Dian said. "but I find I've got to get out to the farm and back before noon, and wondered if you could leave earlier than we planned." "Certainly I can," Bill said. "It's a marvelous morning—and I've a hankering for the country. Shall I come out now?"

"No," said Dian. "I'll pick you up at the Inn. In about half an hour. Will you be through breakfast by then?"

"Oh, yes. I'm just waiting for my eggs!" he laughed. "But I'd even forego them—for a ride."

Two receivers clicked back into the hooks. Dian raced up the steps to her room. She gave the bed a lick and a promise, and got out the blue linen. It wasn't exactly the thing to wear out to show a man a lot of musty paintings stored in a farmhouse attic, but what of it? She wanted to look her best didn't she? Of course she did! And while she prepared to doll up, Bill Rollins salted and peppered his eggs.

"Mind if I join you?" a masculine voice said at his elbow.

He looked up to see Paul Peters. "Why, hello there, Paul!" he greeted. "Join me by all means. How did you sleep?"

"Not very well," said Paul. He sat down, looking forlorn. "Kept dreaming that you and I were fighting duels—trying to outdo each other in feats of strength—while Claire stood at one side and watched us."

Bill chuckled. "Oh, well, it's morning now," he said, "and everything will be brighter. Have you telephoned Claire yet?"

"No, she's probably still sleeping," said Paul. Then, suspiciously, "Have you telephoned her?"

"Are you going to?"

Bill shook his head. "I'm all set for the day."

"How do you mean?"

"Dian Weston's coming by for me," said Bill. "We're driving out to her farm. I'm going to have a look at some paintings."

Paul looked relieved. The forlornness left his face. He perked up and ordered some breakfast.

"Swell girl, Dian!" he said. "Yes, I know," said Bill. "You don't have to sell me the idea. He drained his cup. "I hope you find Claire in a receptive mood and get matters all straightened out."

"Thanks!" said Paul. "I hope so, too. Don't think for a moment I'm not going to try. I'll succeed if it takes every minute of my week in Ardendale."

"That's the spirit!" said Bill. "And now, excuse me, I'll go stand in the sunshine and have a smoke while I wait for Dian."

Paul waited until Bill had risen from his chair, and then he said, "Claire's still got a yen for you, you know. Suppose she finally decides that you're the man for her. What then?"

"Let's not cross that bridge until we get to it," said Bill evasively. "So long! See you later!"

But Paul Peters was wrong about Claire's sleeping late. Like Dian, Claire also had awakened early. She had had plans.

She was now facing her mother in the breakfast nook of the rambling old Lester home. She sipped a glass of orange juice and watched the way the brilliant morning sunshine played over the breakfast silver and china.

"What time did you get in last night?" her mother asked, breaking off a piece of Melba toast.

"It was this morning, darling," Claire said. Around 2 a. m.

"What on earth kept you out that late?"

"I was eloping."

"What!" Mrs. Lester choked on the piece of Melba toast, and reached for a glass of water.

"Take it easy, darling," Claire laughed. "The elopement didn't come off. The storm kept us from getting to the justice of the peace, and so here's your darling daughter—still unmarried."

"Claire, stop trying to be funny, and tell me everything that happened," Mrs. Lester got up from the table and leaned back in her chair, staring at her daughter. "Were you eloping with that artist from New York?"

"No, mother. The man was Paul Peters."

"Well, of all things!" "But the man from New York was partly to blame for the failure of the elopement."

"How?"

"I mean if he hadn't been along—the elopement might have been completed when the storm was over."

"Do you mean he was with you also?"

"Not at first, darling—but later," Claire leaned forward. "Listen, Mother—this is the way it happened." As briefly as she could, Claire told of the happenings of the night before, while her mother listened, eyes wide, shaking her head in wonder now and then. "And that," Claire climaxed, "is the whole story in a nutshell, so to speak."

"Well!" Mrs. Lester gasped. "I never in all my life heard of such goings-on!"

"No, of course not. But the whole thing sounds like something you might have read in a book."

"It does at that—that's why it's so exciting."

Post-War Rubber Spree Looms for U. S.

By CLAYTON J. IRWIN

(Wide World News Service)

When the war's over, don't be surprised if America goes on a rubber spree.

It may be partly due to the reaction from short rations during the war. But to a greater extent, it may be due to the presence of more rubber and rubber substitute than we know what to do with.

We may have so much, say some of the experts, that we'll be putting it on the floors of homes, offices and apartment buildings. And we may even pave the streets and highways with it.

Nothing but sympathy from the tire rationing board these days, this resilient world of the future sounds strictly like a beautiful dream. Even before the war, things were never like that.

Future Independence

He's right, of course. The war that choked off our rubber supply is the factor that may result in a future national independence of all but a comparatively small supply of natural rubber.

It's to the chemical laboratories that the country turns for a solution of the problem. And the chemists say there's no real barrier to the gaudy dream of unlimited synthetic rubber.

We can't have it now, because even with the technical skill and the vast supplies of the raw materials, it takes machinery, and the metals for these machines are going into tanks, ships, guns and planes.

There is some rubber substitute being manufactured in the country now—more than at the time we entered the war. The extent of these operations and the type of the product is not being advertised generally, however.

Rubber From Gasoline

It's the post-war outlook that intrigues the chemists. One of the experts, William Haynes, says in his book, "This Chemical Age," that enough butadiene can be obtained from our gasoline production to make 80,000,000 tons of synthetic rubber. That's about 125 times the country's annual requirement.

Although there may not be any great production of rubber substitute for some time, today's conversation is filled with strange references to it—iso-prene, buna, chloroprene. These are the test tube words that the chemists say will revolutionize the 200-year-old rubber industry.

Spurred by war needs, the researchers have added new types of rubber to the list, increased the range of uses and enlarged the field of raw materials that can be employed in the manufacture.

Flexible at 70 Below

In scores of applications, the synthetic product is superior to natural rubber. Some are resistant to chemical action, some to the deteriorating effects of water and oxygen, others remain flexible at temperatures as low as 70 degrees below zero.

Four Hostesses Entertain for Mrs. Himiller

Adding to the very large quota of lovely parties honoring Mrs. Robert M. Himiller, four attractive hostesses, Mrs. Robert McDonald, Mrs. Andrew Loudner, Mrs. Harry Ferguson and Mrs. John Martin Hyer, entertained with a delightful party on Friday evening at the McDonald home.

The lovely home was an ideal setting for the large party, with its adjoining rooms beautifully decorated with numerous bouquets of garden flowers.

A patriotic motif, suggestive of the Fourth of July, was used in the decorative theme of the tallies, confections and other attractions.

The bridge game was enjoyed during the evening, with lovely trophies presented to Miss Beth Maddox and Miss Lorane Kruse, for first and second high scores and to Mrs. Charles Fults for low score.

A beautiful table lamp was presented to the lovely new bride, who made happy responses. Mrs. Himiller looked stunning in a white cotton pique, with pink and blue riaric trim, most becoming to her dark type.

A delicate salad course was served at the small tables, centered with white pottery vases of red, white and blue carnations.

The guests included:

Mrs. Robert Burns, of Columbus; Mrs. Hal Kenyon, of Detroit, Mich.; Mrs. Alvin Little, of Jeffersonville; Mrs. Horace Locke, Mrs. Charles Fults, Mrs. Robert Terhune, Miss Jean Woodmansee, Mrs. Robert Carman, Mrs. Jack Shipley, Mrs. Alfred Hagler, Mrs. Boyd Butz, Miss Helen Crone, Miss Beth Maddox, Mrs. Paul E. Pennington, Mrs. Grove Davis, Miss Ann Story, Mrs. Lamoine Everhart, Mrs. Bliss Robinson, Miss Rosemary Burgett, Mrs. DeWitt Thornton and Miss Lorane Kruse.

Forbes-Greer Nuptials

Mr. and Mrs. Raymond Forbes of Marion, called at the Perdue home on Leesburg Avenue, Saturday afternoon, on their way home from Greenup, Ky., where they were married at the home of Rev. Muncy, pastor of the Methodist Church. Mr. Forbes will be remembered as the football and baseball star in Washington High School a few years ago. He is on a short furlough from Camp Edwards, Massachusetts. Mrs. Forbes was Miss Vivian Greer, of Marion, and both she and Mr. Forbes are graduates of Marion High School.

Orchid Meets Snood

Now that snoods have lost their hats and tie on the hair with a perky bow, it's fetching to pass a flower through the bow. If it's an orchid that you choose for that special occasion, take care to fasten it on securely without stabbing the stem. One orchid will last through three afternoons and evenings, if placed in the refrigerator at the end of each wearing.

Mildred Willis, Herbert Holland, Married Friday

In a quiet and impressive service, Miss Mildred Willis, daughter of Mrs. Jessie Willis, was united in marriage to Mr. Herbert Holland, son of Mr. Katie Holland, on Friday evening, July 3, with only the immediate families and a few close friends in attendance.

The young couple took their places before the improvised altar at a quarter till eight o'clock, and Rev. W. H. Wilson, of the First Baptist church read the single ring ceremony.

The bride was lovely in her white waffle pique dress, with a corsage of American beauty roses, making a vivid contrast.

Mrs. Davis wore her wedding gown of silk jersey and beige crepe with a corsage of tea roses and baby's breath.

Shortly after the wedding service, the two couples left for the week end at Carey Lake, Michigan.

Mr. Holland was graduated in 1935 from Washington High School, and now is employed at the Bob's Dry Cleaning Company.

hinder the war program." And that is of paramount interest. Further, by placing production of synthetic rubber under an agency director, you would take from the President his control over priorities. This director could do anything he wanted to direct the flow of materials needed for war."

Accordingly, Chairman Gillette (D-Iowa) assured Nelson the committee would defer action until Nelson could present additional objections within a week.

An accusation by Senator Norris (Ind-Neb) that the war production board was "doing nothing about the production of synthetic rubber from alcohol" drew an emphatic denial from Nelson.

"That's a very unfair statement," the production chief retorted.

"Why?" inquired Norris.

"Because we are doing something about it and when I appear before the committee again I will make a statement about that situation," Nelson declared.

Nelson said that a program had been approved requiring production of 700,000 tons of synthetic rubber which he believed sufficient to cover essential needs.

"But this bill," he protested, "goes far beyond that. You may provide for production of much more rubber by use of critical materials needed in the war effort and for non-essential driving, if you please."

"We believe that production of more than 800,000 tons of synthetic rubber, for instance, would be taking away needed materials."

Gillette, chairman of the subcommittee, which has heard witnesses criticize federal rubber officials for relying chiefly on petroleum sources for synthetic rubber, declared returns from the nationwide scrap rubber collection demonstrated an "acute need" for development of all possible sources.

Joining with the Iowan in asking speedy action, minority leader McNary (R-Ore) said there probably would be an opportunity to consider the rubber supply agency bill in the Senate this week.

Both majority leader Barkley (D-Ky) and McNary indicated a desire to defer action until Nelson's testimony could be weighed.

Arthur B. Newhall, rubber coordinator for WPB, also was slated to appear before the Gillette committee today. Newhall reported yesterday that the synthetic rubber program, which envisions an annual production of 800,000 tons by the end of 1943, might cost "considerably less" than the $650,000,000 which congress has authorized.

Gillette said testimony to date indicated the agricultural process was quicker and cheaper than others but he emphasized that corn belt senators had no thought of driving the petroleum industry from the field.

"We just want to enlist all sources of supply as quickly as we can," Gillette said.

products to Britain and Russia under the lend-lease program, the secretary said the United States was depending on the other American Republics to produce rubber, coconut, palm and vegetable oils, quinine, fibers, other agricultural products and many minerals.

Discussing the shipping shortage, Wickard said "sugar is available, but there are not enough ships. Movement of coffee and bananas is becoming more difficult. Wheat is piling up in Argentina and the United States."

"I see no likelihood that the shipping situation will so improve in the year ahead that we will be able to move anything but the essentials," the secretary added.

Urging that the American Republics have plans ready for the end of the war, the secretary said "the immediate problem when the war ends will be relief; the nations of this hemisphere will be able to prevent large-scale sufferings and starvation by prompt action."

bringing up enough reserves to take the offensive.

A bulletin from GHQ said British troops, pressing the initiative, attacked Field Marshal Erwin Rommel's forces in fierce all-day fighting in Egypt yesterday and "in a night attack drove the enemy from a strong point, inflicting heavy casualties."

"In Egypt, battles for the El Alamein position are progressing."

British casualties were officially described as "slight."

Bolstered by strong land and aerial reinforcements, the British were reported previously to have thrown Rommel's armored columns back from a strategic bridge south El Alamein.

In Cairo and Alexandria, optimism increased hourly over news of General Auchinleck's fresh triumphs over "Rommel, the Fox."

Dispatches from the front said the invaders, spent by their swift 350-mile sweep across the desert from Tobruk, were beginning to suffer from lack of food and water as great numbers of RAF and U. S. Army warplanes bombed and machine-gunned Rommel's vital lines of communication.

RAF pilots said they "undoubtedly destroyed hundreds of trucks" and damaged hundreds of others in an attack yesterday on a concentration of 3,500 Axis supply trucks west of El Alamein.

Front-line advisers said the British were rolling up their heavy artillery to pound Rommel's tanks at close range.

GRAIN MARKET NEWS SUMMARY

CHICAGO, July 6.—(P)—Wheat prices tumbled more than two cents a bushel today back to the lows established late last month, which represented the lowest general level reached by bread grain values here since before Pearl Harbor. July contracts hit a bottom of $1.15 before the market rallied late in the session.

Hedging sales associated with great expanding receipts at major terminal markets in the harvest area, including initial receipts of new wheat at Chicago, accounted for most of the selling.

Short covering and buying attributed to mills rallied wheat a cent from the day's lows but closing prices were 1 1/2 cents lower than Friday, July 1.16 1/4, Sept. 1.18 3/4-7/8. Corn closed 1/4-1/2 lower, July 86-86 1/2, Sept. 88 3/4-7/8; oats 1/2-1/4 down; rye 1/4-1/2 off; soybeans 1/4-1/2 lower. Soybeans were down more than two cents at one time with wheat.

HIGHWAY CONSTRUCTION IS INCREASED IN OHIO

COLUMBUS, July 6.—(P)—Despite priorities on critical road materials Ohio highway construction increased 45 percent the first six months of 1942 over the 1941 period, State Highway Director Hal G. Sours reported today.

Two factors which pushed 1942 construction ahead of last year, Sours said, were a quick switch from road construction to building of military and access highways when the priorities rule was invoked and the postponement of last year's surface treatment program until after July 1.

About half the hogs in the United States are raised west of the Mississippi; three-fourths of the pork is eaten east of the Mississippi.

DAY'S ACTIVITIES IN WALL STREET

NEW YORK, July 6.—(P)—

Stocks generally resumed the recovery offensive in today's market although a little sniping by profit takers on the recent advance stemmed the drive here and there.

The Egyptian war news was encouraging but was offset to a degree by cloudy Russian dispatches. Seasonal investment demand, brokers suggested, provided the principal buying inspiration.

The list got off to a good start on better volume than usual. Gains were reduced or canceled in many instances with dealings slowing.

Fayette Countians Show Patriotism in Parades

LINE OF MARCH IS MILE LONG COLORFUL SHOW

Speaker Warns Against 'Too Quick Peace' in Program Climaxing Celebration

Not since the armistice ended World War No. 1 on that chilly morning of November 11, 1918, has there been such a display of patriotism by Fayette Countians as that which was poured out in parades in Jeffersonville and then in Washington C. H. Sunday afternoon.

One of the most unusual demonstrations ever held in Washington C. H., was the mile-long "Parade for Victory" staged here Sunday at 4 P. M., under direction of the Civilian Defense Council, and following the parade Charles A. Jones, of Columbus, vice-president of the American Education Press, delivered a patriotic address to a large crowd assembled on the Courthouse lawn.

The parade had been arranged on short notice, and the outstanding feature was the fact that there was not an automobile in it. The whole parade was aflutter with flags and banners by the scores.

The parade was almost void of floats, and very few horse drawn vehicles took part in the demonstration which consisted almost exclusively of marchers. Nevertheless, the parade was one of the most colorful and impressive held in this city in many years, and prominence was given by every group to the American flag, hundreds of the marchers carrying small flags which added their impressiveness to the larger flags, and the purpose of the parade.

It was a hot afternoon, but a cooling breeze was a great aid to the marchers, practically all of whom finished with flying colors.

A large crowd assembled along the line of march to see the unusual parade, and later assembled on the Courthouse lawn for the patriotic services there.

Forming on East Court Street and Columbus and Washington Avenues, as well as North Street, the big parade moved west on Court Street to Hinde, North to Market, East on Main to Main and South on Main to Court and counter-marched to the south entrance to the Courthouse.

Practically all of the organizations, firms and others scheduled to take part in the parade, were well represented. With the Washington C. H. High School Band and Jeffersonville Band taking a part in the demonstration, as well as Special Weapons Company and all patriotic organizations.

Leading the parade was the Colors Bearer, followed by the Civilian Defense Committee, Service Men, Guard Company, Red Cross, and a long list of other organizations, clubs, firms, etc.

One of the "floats" was a large box arrangement about the size of an automobile, painted to represent an automobile, and carried by four members of the Elks Lodge. It bore the admonition to "save rubber."

Another of the many outstanding features of the parade was the monster American flag, which had been used in previous patriotic demonstrations here, and which was carried by a group of Boy Scouts.

After the parade ended at the Courthouse lawn, A. B. Murray, superintendent of schools, presided, and a loud speaker owned by H. E. Daugherty, was used.

Opening the exercises on the Courthouse lawn, the Washington C. H. High School Band played "Anchors Aweigh" and Phyllis Dill, small daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Roy Dill of Jeffersonville, sang "God Bless America."

Supt. Murray then introduced Charles A. Jones, of Columbus.

In the course of his speech Jones introduced a thought to which most people, as yet, have given little consideration. This was a warning against a "too quick peace." He stressed the idea that there was as much danger of a war weary world seizing upon an early peace which, like in the last world war, might prove inadequate and unsatisfactory. When a call for an armistice comes, he suggested, it should be an armistice of a year or more to allow a "cooling off" period to avoid hasty treaties which will not sufficiently provide for the post-war adjustments. New treaties must allow for tremendously important new conditions which the world faces, conditions which must be carefully studied and plans made to meet them on a world-wide basis, if we do not create a situation such as brought about the present epic struggle.

Jones stressed the importance of the 160th anniversary of the Independence of the United States, and said that while the origin of most nations was more or less beclouded, the United States had a definite day of birth.

He spoke of the men who had battled throughout the world for American Freedom, and who today are engaged in battling for America in the greatest war the world has even known.

He declared no sacrifice is too great to aid the brave men at the front so that American principles and freedom may be preserved, and that the freedom of all peoples may be guaranteed.

"We have faith in this country and its ideals and principles will become a part of the world civilization," he said.

He said that the dictator nations had challenged every principle of right, and pointed out how Germany and Japan are bent on world dominion and must be stopped and broken at all costs.

During the early afternoon Jeffersonville staged a Parade for Victory, in which a large number of persons, featured by the Jeffersonville High School Band, participated.

A large portion of the parade then came to this city and took part in the parade here, adding materially to the big patriotic demonstration here.

STREAMLINING LEGISLATION TO GET TAXES

Move Means Little Here Due To Collection of Back Taxes

While Ohio's county officials have organized to carry to the legislature a campaign to streamline laws governing the collection of $150,000,000 in delinquent real estate taxes, the move will not mean a great deal in Fayette County, it was indicated today by County Auditor Roy Baughn, because of the successful efforts made here during the past few years to collect such delinquent taxes.

Leaders of county officials' organizations have named a committee to draft simplifying legislation. Its membership includes representatives of the County Prosecutors' Association and chairmen of the commissioners, auditors, treasurers, township trustees and Ohio League of municipalities groups.

The Ohio Chamber of Commerce also promised to support the proposal.

John Curry of Cuyahoga County, president of the County Commissioners' Association, estimated that revision of the laws would cut the unpaid tax bill in half.

One of the principal barriers to the sale of forfeited property has been the refusal of financial institutions to grant construction loans because titles could not be guaranteed, George Oswalt, Erie County auditor, asserted at Thursday's meeting.

He suggested that former owners be required to take redemption action within one year. There is no limit now, Oswalt declared.

"We hope to get together on the type of procedure needed to move some of these delinquent properties," said Curry. "I believe that if we had the right machinery we could cut the $150,000,000 in half."

"Under present law a property delinquent for three years is certified by the treasurer to the prosecutor, who begins suit for foreclosure and sale. Another year passes before the sale, at which the high bid must be at least as much as the total outstanding taxes. If there is no such bid, another year passes before the property can be sold and the county commissioners can transfer title. By that time any prospective buyers often lose interest."

'FLYING TIGERS' TURN BACK JAPS PRESSING INVASION OF CHINA

that the newly established American air force, swinging quickly into action, inflicted heavy blows on Japanese airfields at Hankow, Nanchang and Canton over a four-day period starting July 1.

"Communiques will be issued daily," the first war bulletin said, indicating the Americans' determination to press home unrelenting attacks against the Japanese invaders of China.

On the ground, Generalissimo Chiang Kai-Shek's armies were reported to have struck back at the Japanese captors of Iwang, in Kiangsi Province, retaking the town after the enemy had held it only 24 hours.

Chinese dispatches said the counter-attack had weakened Japanese efforts to trap large Chinese forces in Central Kiangsi, and declared that the invaders were still unable to bridge the last 25-mile gap between their columns driving along the strategic Kiangsi-Chekiang Railway.

In the battle of Australia, Gen. Douglas MacArthur's headquarters announced that Allied bombers, ranging far out over southwest Pacific waters, again pounded Japanese "invasion" bases in northeast New Guinea, Timor and the Solomon Islands.

Twenty-seven Japanese heavy bombers and six fighters attacked the Allied outpost at Port Moresby, New Guinea, but inflicted only light damage and casualties.

An Australian correspondent, quoted by BBC, declared almost non-stop Allied raids on Japanese bases above Australia were preventing the enemy from massing for a big-scale offensive.

"Our consistent attacks are hurting their striking power," the correspondent said.
